

Name: _____

In the 1930s, Septima Clark was an African American teacher in Columbia, S.C. The white teachers made considerably more for doing the exact same job. She single-handedly began a movement that in 1936 forced the state of South Carolina to put black teachers on the same pay scale as white teachers. She had this to say about her justice-doing: “I always say that there’s a time in your life when you’re moved to say ‘no,’ and this was the time.”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.

Name: _____

In 1933, Zilla Hawes Daniel organized the first Amalgamated Clothing Workers local in the South. She had this to say about her tumultuous activism: “Personally, I’ve never liked the idea of being arrested. I’ve never been particularly afraid of it, if it was necessary, and I have been put in jail a number of times, but I’ve never courted that kind of thing. But I think you can’t function if you are going to allow yourself to be fearful.”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.

Name: _____

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said: “Somehow we must be able to stand up before our most bitter opponents and say, ‘We shall match your capacity to inflict suffering by our capacity to endure suffering. We will meet your physical force with soul force. Do to us what you will, and we will still love you.’”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.

Name: _____

Rosa Parks had this to say about refusing to stand silently by: “I think individuals can make up their own minds on what they can do or solve or help whatever problems are confronting them. I feel like each person should think and be aware of and learn as much as they can about what has occurred and realize that whatever is going on did not just begin with them. I think everybody should be involved if they want to see better opportunities. I don’t think anybody should be eliminated from doing what they can do to bring about whatever is necessary for full and complete freedom.”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.

Name: _____

Bell hooks, a contemporary feminist educator, has this to say about finding your voice: “Coming to voice is not just the act of telling one’s experience. It is using that telling strategically – to come to voice so that you can identify freely with other people.”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.

Name: _____

Gandhi stated: “I object to violence because when it appears to do good, the good is only temporary: the evil it does is permanent.”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.

Name: _____

Author Maria Harris has this to say about the refusal to stand silently by: “Silence in the face of evil, allowing the false word to pass, is corrosive and deadly not only to the victim, but also to the bystander. Silence corrupts our spirituality.”

Using the quote above and your knowledge of the nonviolent campaign in the Civil Rights Movement, write a 1 page essay answering the following prompt:

- a. Using the quote above, explain the ways that power and fear can affect change with respect to abusive relationships between dominant and minority groups.